Q When you would have to stand outside of Melvin's room, where would you stand?

A We just past it, where you saw the light switches. That was usually one place where I would stand with my head against the wall.

This is Melody's room. That door right there connects to the closet in their room.

Q Now, had you ever shared this room with her?

A No.

Q This was always her room?

A Yep.

Q Did anything ever happen in this bathroom?

A That was the bathtub. That's where when I got sick in the cat box. He water-boarded me there once.

Q Tell me about that.

A Just like in the bathtub, he just said lay down. Like he kind of laid me down there and then he started running the water in my face.

Q And why did that one happen?

A Because I got sick in the cat box.

Q Why did you get sick?

A Because it was after dinner and I ate too much, and was standing in front of the cat box and I -- well, I threw up.

Q So how did he find out that you had thrown up?

A Because I started crying.

Q So you got sick and you were crying?

A Yeah.

Q What did he do?

A Then he came out, seen where I was crying, and he thought -- he saw that I threw up and took me to the bathroom and water-boarded me in the bathtub.

Q Did he have your body in there?

A He had me lying so my head was like right here, and then I was kind of like straight. Then he just turned the water on and it come down in my face.

Q Were you face up or face down?

A Face up.

Q And what were you doing while this was happening?

A I was trying to get up, but I think he was holding me down because I couldn't get up. Then he let me stand up again for a minute, and he asked me if I was going to get sick again, and I said no. He said that's because you already did. And then he put me down and started doing it again.

Q Do you know about how old you were when that happened, the cat box incident?

A I think I might have been around ten. I don't exactly know.

Q What is this room, Anna?

A This is the laundry room.

Q What is this room?

A This is the room that he turned into an office. My mom was drawing that. This is the room he turned into the office, and that used to be my bedroom until he decided to make it into an office.

Q Is that your train set there or --

A No, that's his. He was building it. That used to be my closet.

Q Can you describe the chairs that you used to sit in.

A They were fold-up chairs and they weren't hard, they were very, very soft. But they were like, you know, kind of like the metal office ones that you sit on that fold up.

Q I'm sorry. You said they were a fold-up
